Getting started with Rejoin

Create your account, say your first words, and find your way around.

Rejoin gives someone their words back when speech is hard. Type or tap, and it speaks aloud in a natural voice. The core of Rejoin is free forever and works offline. This guide covers the first few minutes.

For the person using Rejoin, or a caregiver helping them.

1. Create your free account

Open Rejoin and sign in with Apple, Google, or email. The account keeps your words, phrases, and care log safe, and brings them back on any device you sign in to.

New or returning, it is the same buttons. There is nothing to buy to be heard.

2. Say your first words

On the Speak tab, type in the box, then tap the gold Speak button and Rejoin says it aloud.

Two AI helpers sit under the box: Fix tidies up a rushed message, and Expand turns a few words into a full sentence. You always tap Speak yourself, so nothing is said without you.

3. Make it sound like you

Pick any built-in voice, or use a Personal Voice you record in the iPhone's Settings (Accessibility, then Personal Voice) so Rejoin speaks in your own voice.

If speech is still clear, recording a Personal Voice early is the single most meaningful thing to do.

4. Your one-tap phrases

The Sayings tab holds big tiles for the things said most often, one tap to speak. Rejoin can also suggest phrases it notices are used a lot, and each one is approved before it is added.

5. Find your way around

Four tabs run along the bottom: Speak, Sayings, Care, and Me. The Me tab is home for About me (which makes suggestions sound personal), voice and display settings, data backup, and Connect with your clinician.
